

Vertical clinging and leaping of the pumpkin lemur, an endangered primate of Madagascar.

Anthropumpkinism

The Anthropology Department's 2014
fall party, advising fair, and pumpkin-carving contest

Friday, October 31

3 to 5 p.m.

Lobby, Hortense Amsterdam House
(2110 G St.)

Colossal head from the Olmec site of San Lorenzo Pumpkinocán.

Pumpkinauts of the Western Pacific, a representation of the legendary voyage of the culture hero Pumpkin-Tiki.

Anthropology students get together for food, pumpkin-carving, academic advising, intellectual conversation, and convivial hanging-out. Pumpkins can be carved on the HAH deck before the main event.